

IPB Call for Submissions

Purpose: The International Psychology Bulletin's (IPB) new vision is to produce an issue quarterly (January, April, July, and October) to coincide with the publication of the International Perspectives in Psychology (IPP) journal. The IPB will primarily serve to (1) connect members of Division 52 through announcements of upcoming events run by Division 52 as well as its members, (2) highlight member activities and accomplishments, (3) highlight international partnerships and projects, and (4) inform members of upcoming workshops and conferences. The IPB will place a special emphasis on ECPs, students, and international members to enhance the voice of these member groups.

NOTE to all submitting authors: The IPB is a newsletter with limited space. Editors ask that submissions are kept to brief synopsis of the perspective, highlight, or other professional work being submitted. Authors are encouraged to send the Editors a link to a larger piece of work that the IPB can link to, this can include a website link or a link to a PDF document saved in the authors Dropbox account or like medium). Additionally, authors are encouraged to send editors a headshot of the authors and any other images that enhance the text of the submission.

Sections for Submission:

Division 52 News / Updates

- Submissions for Division 52 News are being requested for relevant current news/updates from within the Division or any other relevant general announcements Division 52 members would like to submit. Submissions can be up to 30 words and should include a link to more information.

Global Perspectives

- This section will serve to increase the voice of members within Division 52 and to connect members through highlighting current international and cross-cultural trends in international and global psychology. Submissions should 500 words max, IPB will accept two Global Perspectives per issue. Submissions that are co-written with an international partner (does not need to be a Division 52 member) will be prioritized. Additionally, IPB is looking to enhance readership through publishing pieces in both English and the language of a culture/nation of the Global Perspective at hand, these submissions will receive priority.

Collaborations

- This section will highlight collaborations and projects that are showing true essence of global psychology, cross-cultural / national collaborations, and projects occurring outside of the USA. Additionally, this section will serve as a call from Members to develop collaborations. Submissions should be 500 words max. Submissions that are co-written with an international collaborator (does not need to be a Division 52 member) will be prioritized. Additionally, IPB is looking to enhance readership through publishing pieces in both English and the language of the collaborating culture/nation, these submissions will also receive priority.

Pilot Study Corner

- This section will highlight current international and global psychology pilot studies that are either underway or have been completed. The aim of this corner is to highlight pilot studies and promising projects and provide Members an opportunity to put a call out to other Members and readers to develop research collaborations to expand upon the pilot study or promising project, or to launch a research initiative. Submissions should be 500 words max. Submissions that are co-written with an international collaborator (does not need to be a Division 52 member) will be prioritized. Additionally, IPB is looking to enhance readership through publishing pieces in both English and the language of the collaborating culture/nation, these submissions will also receive priority.

IPB Call for Submissions

Upcoming Conferences and Events

- This section will highlight any relevant upcoming events, trainings, or conferences to members of Division 52. Please submit a brief overview (50 words) of the event, a link to the event main page and registration, any image that is appropriate.

Division 52 Member Highlights

- This section will provide Division 52 members a section to highlight their published work (articles, books, and other works). Additionally, any awards or recognitions received by members will be published. Please provide editors with (1) title of the published article or name of award/recognition, (2) name of authors or recipient, and (3) links to where abstracts/books are located or link to the website where the award was announced.

Historical Perspectives

- This section will provide Division 52 members with a space to reflect on a specific event or time in the history of Division 52, reflect on their time within the Division and the evolution of their career while being a part of such an important Division or the evolution of the Division as a whole, or any other idea members may have that might be of interest to our readership regarding the History of Division 52.

Student Highlights

- This section will provide Division 52 students an opportunity to highlight their work, research, or any other important topics that they would like to discuss. Additionally, this section will discuss work completed by the student committee.

ECP Highlights

- This section will provide Division 52 early career psychologists the opportunity to discuss their work, research, and will provide an overview of the work completed by the ECP committee.

IPiP Article Review

- This section will provide critical examination and reviews of articles within Division 52 International Perspectives in Psychology Journal to foster meaningful analysis and critique of the relevant research within the IP field.

Art and Poetry Corner

- This section will feature any creative art or poetry from our members. Please submit any works of art, including poems, photos of original art pieces you have created. Include with your submission the title of your piece, and a brief statement describing your piece.

Submission

We welcome any submissions which highlight the great work being done in the field of global and international psychology, including:

- interdisciplinary collaborations
- Division announcements

IPB Call for Submissions

- work that supports the UN Sustainable Development Goals
- upcoming conferences or events
- opinion pieces
- any creative expressions (artwork, poetry) that would inspire our membership.

Please submit your pieces for consideration to ipbdiv52@gmail.com. In the subject please mention the section you will be submitting to. For example “[Global Perspectives] The Cross-Cultural Psychological Impact of COVID-19 on child development in Sierra Leone and India”